LOW OUTLINES HIS POLICY.

FITNESS TO BE THE ONLY CLAIM TO PLACE UNDER HIM.

And He Will Leave His Heads of Departments Free to Select Their Own Subordinates—Questions of Patronage to Be Ignored in Making Appointments.

Seth Low went to Great Barrington, Mass., yesterday afternoon to stay until Monday or Tuesday of next week. He stood the campaign well, but naturally was exhausted at its end. While he is in the Berkshires Mr. Low intends to rest, and he will not consider any matters of business until he returns to this city.

Before Mr. Low went away he had a talk with the newspaper men in which he took advantage of the opportunity to tell exactly what his policy in regard to appointment would be, and also to say something about his companions on the fusion ticket. It has been sad by Mr. Low many times since the campaign began that he would go into the office of Mayor unhampered by a single pledge, and that the people of New York would find their Chief Executive exercising all his powers in the City Hall and nowhere else during the next two years. Mr. Low repeated this yesterday.

When he saw the reporters the first question that was fired at him was as to whether he had made any selection of a Commissioner and Chief of Police to succeed Col. Michael C. Murphy, the Tammany incumbent. Mr.Low has promised the voters on the stump that Deputy Commissioner of Police Devery will not last any longer than two quick winks after the oath of office is administered on Jan. 1, and it was thought that he might have somebody in mind for the office of Commissioner. The Mayor has no power of removal over the Deputy Commissioner of Police, or, for that matter, over the deputies in any department, all of them being appointed by the chiefs of the departments.

During the afternoon it had been said that Capt. F. Norton Goddard, the Republican leader of the Twentieth Assembly district, and Gen. Francis Vinton Greene, ex-President of the Republican County Committee, were being considered for the office of Commissioner of Police.

Mr. Low replied to the question on this matter that he had given the subject no consideration. He said that he thought his statements in regard to Commissioner his statements in regard to Commissioner Murphy and Deputy Commissioner Devery had been explicit enough, and that it was unnecessary for him to say anything further on the subject. Having disposed of these questions he said:

"You might say for me with regard to Justice Jerome that I am delighted at his election and at his large vote. I am confident that we can cooperate in office as heartily and effectively as we did on the stump. I am also greatly pleased to know that the whole city government will be practically one. It is most fortunate that those in control of and responsible for the administration of the city's affairs should have complete control of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment."

Estimate and Apportionment."

It was suggested that Mr. Low might find some difficulty in adjusting the claims of the various bodies which supported him when it came to the distribution of offices, and he was asked how he would do it.

"If you want to ask whether I shall be influenced in making my appointments by questions of patronage—decidedly no. The interests of the city alone will be considered. I think that everybody who supported me knew that. The Charter gives to the Mayor the appointment of certain officers, and these appointments I shall make with all possible care. I shall expect each Commissioner appointed by me pect each Commissioner appointed by me to consult with me as to his deputy. The deputy will represent the Mayor as well as the Commissioner.

Beyond that, every Commissioner will held responsible for the administration be held responsible for the administration of his own department, and because I shall hold him responsible I shall leave him free in regard to the selection of his subordinates. Therefore those who may wish subordinate offices in the city government must deal with the heads of departments when they are appointed. It will be idle for them to make applications to me. Such applications will receive no consideration applications will receive no consideration at my hands, and neither will they be re-ferred to the heads of departments."

Mr. Low has received a great number of congratulatory telegrams. Among them were the following:

From President Roosevelt: I congratulate the city even more than I do you upon the overwhelming triumph of the forces of decency."

From Gov. Odell: "Many congratulations upon your great victory and dest wishes for the coming administration. You deserve the magnificent indersement given

Many things contributed to the good result and one of the most influential forces I believe was the almost united support of the newspaper press, which took the lead months ago in calling attention to the conditions and in demanding a change. They began their campaign then and loyally supported the fusion managers in the vexatious days when the various elements were being united. They kept up a vigorous warfare until the election and helped essentially to make the campaigning of the fusionists effective. They, as well as the voters, laid aside regular party lines and went in for a houselar party lines and went in for a house-cleaning. They deserve the thanks of the

Sixty-five Italians who are employed on Mr. Rockefeller's Pocantico Hills estate were transported from Buttermilk Hill, where they are building a $50,000 road, to the voting place in lumber wagons. Greater New York Democracy Will Invite Other Democrats to Join With It in Rehabilitating the Party in This City-Tammany's Extinction Planned. The utter rout of Tammany Hall has convinced the managers of the Greater New York Democracy that their opportunity Democratic organization in the city of New York which shall be recognized at the State and national conventions. The Executive Committee of the Greater New York Democracy will meet on Friday evening to act on numerous propositions that have been made for the extension of its influence.

It is expected that the Executive Committee will issue an invitation to all Democrats in the city who are antagonistic to Tammany Hall to attend a conference, at which will be decided what action shall be taken. The leaders of the Greater New York Democracy think that the bulk of Democratic voters in New York, Kings, Queens and Richmond counties are ready for an entire and radical reorganization of the party, and this they intend to attempt to bring about.

Jacob A. Cantor, President-elect of the borough of Manhattan, who has been one of the leaders of the new Democratic organization since it was formed last spring, said yesterday that he thought that the salvation of the Democratic party in this city was to be had only through the entire obliteration of the name of Tammany Hall as associated in political matters.

'The reorganization of the party in New York city is now the first thought in the. mind of every Democrat," said Mr. Cantor "Invitations will soon be issued to all Democrats who have left the organization or permitted their interest in the party to slacken on account of the corrupt methods which have characterized the management of Tammany Hall to join with their fellows in an effort to purge the party of that stain. I think that the vote which we polled yesterday justifies us in going to the next State Convention and demanding the exclusion of the Tammany delegates and the seating of our delegates. If Tammany Hall remains as it is, we shall go to the next State convention and oppose it. We do not pro-pose to treat with Tammany Hall, to barpose to treat with Tammany Hall, to bargain with it, or to have any connection with it whatever. We shall continue to fight it. Personally, I would like to see the name obliterated. I would like to see it wiped out; it always was a stench and always will be a stench as long as it continues in existence. It will disintegrate now anyhow, for with its patronage gone, it is stripped of power, and has nothing left to entice any man to its support. I am personally in any man to its support. I am personally in favor of repealing the charter of the Tammany society, thus ending it once for all."

"Mr. Cantor, will the great patronage of your office be used to upbuild this new Democracy?"

Croker's Discomfiture Makes Him Smile

He Cracks a Joke.

While John C. Sheehan, the leader of the Greater New York Democracy, was discussing with a number of his friends the results of the election yesterday, some-body said:

"Mr. Sheehan, do you believe the story that Croker is going to abdicate?"

"Abdicate?" said Mr. Sheehan, "Hell, he can't abdicate. He's been decapitated."

Mr. Sheehan smiled all day long yesterday. His friends remarked that he had waited for four years to get his revenge on Richard Croker, who deposed him from the leadership of Tammany Hall, and knocked him out of the leadership of the Tammany forces in the Ninth Assembly.

The Coffeyites in Brooklyn are expected to join hands with the leaders of the Greater New York Democracy, and the organization will be extended and strengthened in every borough. John C. Sheehan, one of its officers, said yesterday that the officers of the various tickets elected by the fusion movement who were members of the Greater New York Democracy were President-elect Contro of the Board of Aldermen, President-elect Contro of the borough of Manhattan; Sheriff-elect O'Brien, the leader of the Thirty-fifth district; Coroner-elect Brown, the leader of the Second district; the Coroners in The Bronx and the Coroner-elect in Richmond. THE COMING OF THE "PRINCE"

RANJIT OF BALUCHISTAN" AND RETINUE STRIKE TOWN.

Woman, Twenty-six Men and a Boy in His Train-No Official Reception-Suspected in London of Being a Curry Cook in Disguise - Astonishes Montreal.

"Prince Ranjit of Baluchistan" descended upon New York vesterday morning with all als retinue, which is twenty-eight strong. New York did not tip up any when he landed. The Prince came from Montreal and London, where he has made something of a stir and has been extensively exploited by the newspapers.

Somehow the manner of the Prince's entrance into the metropolis was not as convincing as he would like to have had it. The Prince came from Montreal, leaving there Tuesday night. He came in a parlor car, with an individual who was spoken of in cities he has formerly visited as his dancing girl. The Prince and the woman, who is known to hotel registers as Bahar Bux, dropped off the train quite unostentatiously at 125th street. The balance of the retinue, consisting of twenty-six men and a fat little boy, who were in the adjoining passenger coach, did not see that the big man had departed from the train until it had started again. They tried to jump overboard after him, but were restrained. They showed almost frantic anxiety to know where he had gone. One of them even asked the trainman if the train was going to stop near a lawyer's office pretty soon so that they could get help.

On their arrival at the station, however, the people were met by a young man with a managerial cast of countenance, who went out to the curb with them and asked the backmen where he could get a "theatrical express." This was procured for him and the party went downtown.

A number of interested persons followed them. It was learned that the party was steered to a restaurant at Greenwich and Chambers streets kept by a man named

H. Lasar.

It was reported there later in the day that the Prince had joined his retainers there and had eaten with them. He had then, according to Mr. Lazar's story, announced that he was going uptown with Bahar Bux and that the rest were at lberty to please themselves for a season. They scattered among the Syrian and Greek and Turkish hoarding houses in the neighand Turkish boarding houses in the neigh and Turkish boarding houses in the neighborhood.

This selection of boarding houses was in itself somewhat enlightening. The Prince in his few interviews since he appeared in civilized communities has said that he brought his retainers with him from Baluchistan. The retainers had probably been imperfectly coached, but they ingenuously told one interviewer in Montreal that they had been picked up all along the road.

of a statement which did gain some currency in London and Montreal that the Prince Ranjit of Baluchistan, was none other than the famous curry cook of the Hotel Cecil, London, who resigned his post a short time before the appearance of the Prince. There was quite a disturbance about the identity of the Prince and even the London Times unbent to take notice of it.

The Times announced that it was in-The Times announced that it was informed by the Indian Office that it had been much perplexed by the paragraphs appearing in the press with regard to the movements of an Oriental calling himself the Prince of Baluchistan. There was no such Prince known to the office. that the somewhat belated official warning does not imply any suggestion that the Prince assumed a title to which he had no claim for mercenary purposes."

Despatches from Montreal state that the Prince left that city somewhat precipitately, leaving behind him his secretary, a gentleman by the significant name of Ghosh. Mr. Ghosh, being interviewed, talked much in the strain affected by theatrical persons who do not accompany the troupes with which they started out on the road. They had a private difference, to the Prince and he, was his story and he could not say as to whether or not he would rejoin the Prince until he had some communication from him. Under circumstances, the nature of which the Prince was very well aware, he would not say the prince was been stored.

If any of the larger hotels uptown were harboring the Prince and Bahar Bux last night the fact was carefully concealed.

Pan-American Congress Hears Mexico's

DISCUSSING ARBITRATION.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 6 - When the time arrived in this morning's session of the Hutin of the Panama Canal Company to Pan-American Congress to read the Mexican arbitration proposition, Senor Pardo of Mexico, chairman of the Arbitration Committee, moved a secret session, saying that a public reading of such an important project now would be liable to provoke a premature discussion. According to the rules of the conference the motion was not delegable and it was corried in the A. Ir. debatable, and it was carried, 14 to 4. It was noticeable that the votes for an open session were from Argentine, Peru, Bolivia and Paraguay. These countries are among the warmest supporters of general arbitration.

Generally speaking the Mexican project Generally speaking the Mexican project recognizes compulsory arbitration. It begins by declaring that arbitration must be resorted to except under certain conditions in which is included that indefinable something called national honor. It further aims at the establishment of a general court of arbitration to meet somewhere in South America, the establishment following broadly the lines propounded at The Hague. The project also contemplates further the establishment of some general means for enforcing the court's decisions. Please Give Him a Description of the Two TARBYTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 6. At the third night at Twenty-third street and Broadway.

It didn't seem to strike him that, having seen them, he was the best fitted to supply a description. The men, he said, were strangers to him.

They told him they hadn't been convinced by his speeches, so he took them to the Ashland House cafe to convince the best chrysanthemums. John D. Rocke-feller, Joseph Eastman, Louis Stern, A. C., Constable, Miss Helen Gould and John D. Archbold were among the exhibitors.
